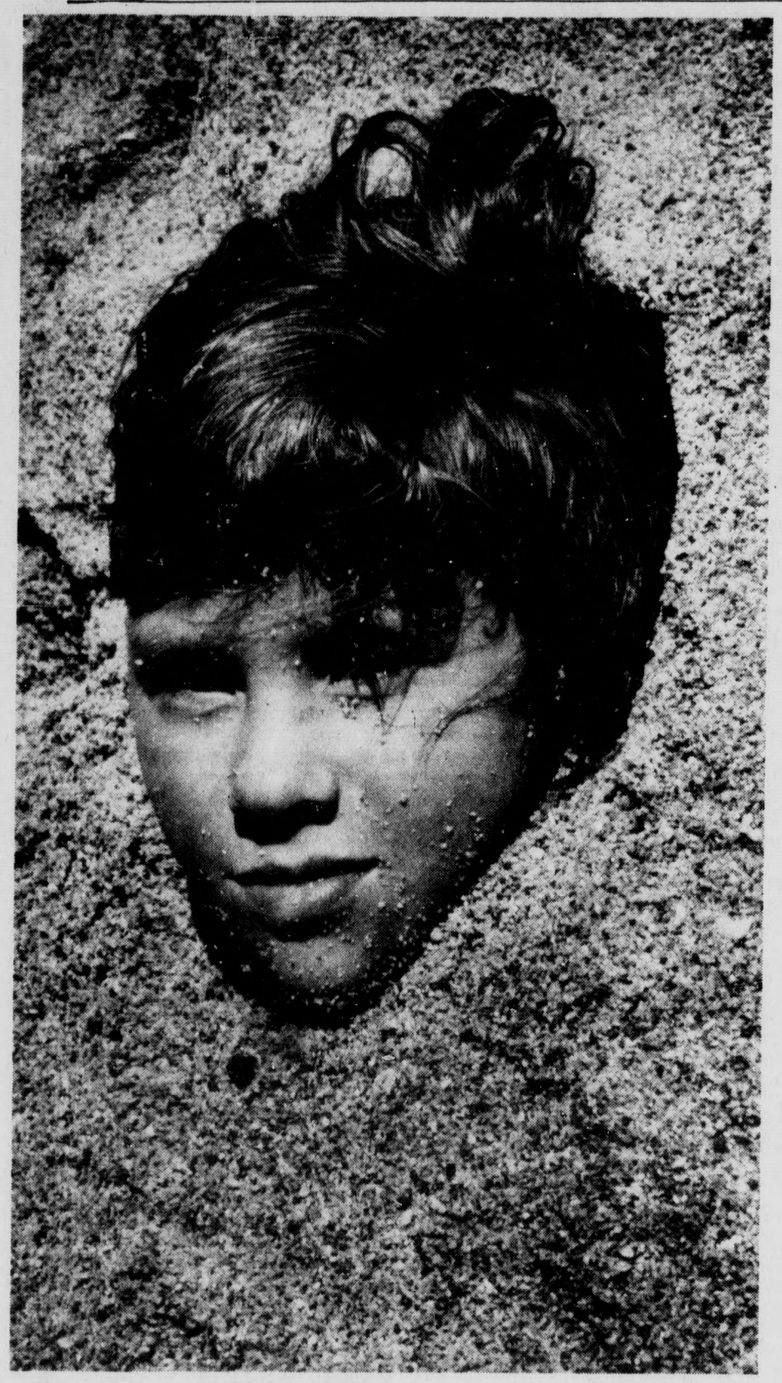
Three legislators blocking Swedish student exchange



Chin up

Sally Franco, nine, of Pleasanton, doesn't like to lose her head over a little thing like being buried in the sand. But, that's what it looked like Saturday when her brother tossed the gravely mixture on top of her during a family outing to Shadow Cliffs Regional Park. Moments later, the lass was beaming at the experience and ready for a plunge in the nearby water.

Southern bloc snag

Legislation that would clear the way for 50 Swedish foreign exchange students coming to California, including nine to Livermore and Pleasanton, has reached Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr.'s desk but is apparently being held in abeyance due to the actions of three Southern California legislators.

Judy Luepke, valley representative for Students International of Europe, said AB 2757 (Greene, D) cleared the legislature Friday and was sent on to Brown.

However, Mrs. Luepke got a call from Alan Sumner, a legislative assistant in the Governor's office, Friday night saying three legislators, from San Diego, San Bernardino and Los Angeles counties, were allegedly pressuring the Governor not to sign the bill.

The thinking is that the bill would affect immigration of Mexican students into schools in those counties. Two of the counties are adjacent to the border while Los Angeles is frequently the destination of Mexican nationals coming into the country.

Unless the legislation is signed, the students will not be permitted to come to the United States. All have previously been assigned to specific host families and high schools, the valley-bound contingent slated to attend Granada (six students), Foothill (two) and Livermore (one).

The legislation would override an opinion of the State Attorney General's office which says that foreign-based agencies such as the Swedish one should not be permitted to send students to utilize classroom facilities in California. The opinion also decries agreements between local school districts and foreign-based student exchange agencies.

One of the provisions of the bill would authorize local districts to enter into agreements with the U.S. Immigration Bureau, declaring that the district has the facilities to adequately instruct the foreign students while maintaining the level of instruction for regular members of the student body.

This is the final week of the legislative session.

Until Brown acts, some 50 Swedish students are literally sitting on their suitcases, waiting to come to California for the start of classes next week.

Carry on

The Pleasanton Hotel, a landmark for more than 100 years, will continue to be operated by the Hufft family, a relative of the late Terry Hufft told The Times yesterday. Hufft's death last week led to speculation in the community that the restaurant might cease operation, but a close relative said that the family will continue operations with the same personnel. Hufft owned and operated the widely - known restaurant for 20 years until his death last week.

Pinard burial today, report due

Earl Alvin Pinard, a jeweler in the valley for 47 years, will be buried today in St. Augustine's Cemetary in Pleasanton in a private service.

Mr. Pinard was killed Thursday when his homemade airplane crashed into a quarry pond near the Tracy Airport. His body was found Saturday by divers.

The San Joaquin County Sheriff's office conducted the search in the three-acre pond owned by the Lone Star Industries, in which the water's depth ranges from 15 to 80 feet. The quarry pond is about one-half mile south of the airport.

Mr. Pinard was flying a single-seat biplane he had constructed over a period of 15 years when he crashed. It was the craft's first test flight.

Witnesses said the plane had been up and landed once at the airport. He was making his second flight when, at an altitude of about 400 feet, the plane dipped to one side, rolled left, and nose-dived into the pond.

Divers immediately found the wreckage and Pinard's cap but could not locate his body. One of Mr. Pinard's two sons, Eugene, 29, of Pleasanton, had accompanied his father to the airport and witnessed the accident.

A Lone Star truck driver, Bernard Etcheverry, who witnessed the crash, said, "It dipped once and then veered to the left when I saw a splash. I kept waiting for him to pull out of it. He never did."

The truck driver said airport tower operator James Morford ran to the lake, where he and Eugene dove in and swam to the top wing of the plane, where they found Mr. Pinard's cap floating on the surface.

The Federal Aviation Agency is investigating the incident, and FAA inspectors were on the scene Friday morning. An FAA report is expected later this week.

Mr. Pinard was a former member of the Pleasanton Lions Club, the Retail Jewelers Association and a registered gemologist. He was also a former flight instructor for civilian pilots near Watsonville during World War II.

He is survived by his wife, Angel of Pleasanton, two sons, Richard Pinard of Las Vegas, Nev., and Eugene Pinard of Pleasanton, and a sister, Fran Fox of San Jose.

Holy Rosary will be recited tonight at 7 p.m. in the chapel of Graham - Hitch Mortuary, 675 St. Johns St. in Pleasanton. A Mass of Christian Burial will be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. Interment will follow at St. Augustine's Cemetary; services will be private.

Anti-conversion force could dictate housing

This is the last of a series of articles concerning seventh-eighth grade housing in the Murray School District and attendant enrollment and construction problems.

Residents-In-Action, a Dublin School area parent group, has been circulating petitions asking district residents for support in opposing conversion of Dublin School to a seventh-eighth grade facility and busing of K-6 children out of their present area.

At the same time, the group is formulating an alternative plan they hope to present at the next school board meeting. They have also been offered time at Wednesday's Citizens Advisory Committee meeting to make a presentation.

All told, the efforts of this group could go a long way in influencing what the Murray school board eventually does on the question of conversion versus status quo.

This does not overlook the fact the CAC is the one group formally charged with providing data and recommendations to the board on the subject.

Still, the fact RIA has been most active during the time survey forms (asking residents to check either conversion or status quo) were out in the district could have an affect on what persons responding say.

CAC chairman Bob Scheppler has admitted the panel would have to seriously reconsider their position (which now strongly leans to converting a school, possibly Dublin and/or Frederiksen) if the results of the survey are strongly in favor of maintaining the status quo.

The petitions sent out by the RIA state, in part, "The undersigned believes that it is to the interests of those concerned, i.e. the school district, its board of directors, and residents of said district, that the following matter be given serious and urgent consideration for implementation and action by the board, to wit:

"We are opposed to busing our kindergarten through sixth (K-6) grade children out of their present area. We oppose the conversion of Dublin School to a seventh-eighth grade facility. Where as the problem of Donlon student housing establishes a need in a definite area; we support the improvement of that facility and/or busing the required number of Donlon seventh-eighth grade students to other school(s) to improve conditions."

The latter part of the statement is liable to leave a bittersweet taste in the mouths of Donlon area parents. While parent group leaders have been highly vocal on improving the school, specifically by placing of a full-fledged multi purpose room on site, they have expressed no interest in busing even a portion of the area's junior high students to Weils or some other north-of-580 school.

Groundwork for the final course of action, then, could be laid when CAC members meet Wednesday night at Frederiksen.

Murray assistant superintendent Heinz Gewing indicated Friday the survey results being compiled by Applied Technology MIGHT be ready.

This will probably be the next-to-last CAC gathering as the board has asked for data gathered and recommendations by the first meeting in October.

Eventual implementation of those recommendations will determine the district's course for many years to come.

Mondale at fair picnic

PLEASANTON — Democratic Party vice presidential nominee Walter Mondale will launch the Jimmy Carter campaign drive in California Monday at the Alameda County Central Labor Council picnic in the Alameda County Fairgrounds.

More than 10,000 AFL-CIO members and their families are expected for the 20th annual Labor Day picnic, largest union sponsored event in the state.

Richard K. Groulx, secretary for the labor council, announced that other political dignitaries will be on hand, including Senator John Tunney, Rep. Pete Stark, and Assemblyman Floyd Mori, among others.

Braesekes fueded over his driving

DUBLIN — Arguments over a poor driving record may have been one of the factors leading to a shooting which left three members of a Dublin family dead, The Times has learned.

Twenty - year - old Barry Braeseke, charged with the murders of his father, mother and grandfather in their 11418 Betlen Drive home last week, had at least one outstanding traffic warrant and had had his driver's license suspended at least once, investigators said.

Young Braeseke has been stopped and/or cited for drunk driving, throwing a substance at a vehicle, and driving with emergency equipment (siren, top-mounted light and walkie-talkie) to the scene of emergencies, authorities said yesterday.

Inside sources said Braeseke had argued with his father over the youth's driving record.

One investigator said young Braeseke had once taken two clear plastic bags and filled them with flour to simulate a 'drug'. He then drove to the gates at Santa Rita Jail "to see what would happen." He was detained and questioned at the gate, but released when the material was discovered to be only flour.

Braeseke is charged with three counts of first-degree murder in the shooting deaths of his grandfather, John Braeseke, 81; his father, Floyd Braeseke, and mother, Barbara Braeseke, both 41. They were found shot to death one week ago in the family room of their Briarhill area home.

All had been shot to death at close range with a .22-caliber gun. Barry Braeseke told police that he discovered the three bodies when he returned home from the auto movies.

An affadavit filed with the court clerk's office in Livermore says Braeseke confessed to the triple murder to gain a family inheritance, it is reported.

David Barker of San Ramon, aged 16, has been charged with complicity in the shootings and will be tried in juvenile court.

Braeseke will appear in court Sept. 16 at 11 a.m. to answer the charges that could bring him the death penalty if convicted. He remains in Oakland county courthouse jail on $600,000.

Meanwhile, Mr. and Mrs. Braeseke will be buried today after funeral services in Santa Rosa. The body of John Braeseke will be flown to Illinois for entombment.

John Braeseke was a member of the American Legion and Old Glory Lodge No. 975 AF and AM of Chicago. He is survived by a brother, Fred Braeseke of Florida, three sisters, Mercedes Nusperle of Illinois, Ada Clark of Florida, and Florence Dumez of Florida, a son John O. Braeseke of Morton Grove, Ill., five grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, and several nieces and nephews.

Floyd Braeseke is survived by his son, Barry, his brother John, and several nieces and nephews.

Barbara Braeseke is survived by son Barry, a sister, Jane W. Ruedi of Decatur, Ill,., her father, Harold C. Winje of Santa Rosa, and many nieces and nephews.

Mr. and Mrs. Braeseke will be interred at Santa Rosa Memorial Park following 1 p.m. services at the Egan - Lance Funeral Home, 1540 Mendocino Avenue, Santa Rosa.

Suspected arrested in currency altering case

LIVERMORE — A 32-year-old Modesto man was arrested after officers found 32 $1 bills in a pool cue case inside his car, each with corners from $20 bills attached, police report.

According to reports, the suspect ordered a beer at Dan's Place on South Livermore Avenue and handed bartender James Gillette a $20 bill Gillette was walking towards the cash register when he noticed the bill had a portrait of George Washington.

When confronted, the suspect grabbed the bill and ran out the front door.

While police were questioning Gillette, a witness spotted a man matching the suspect's description leaving another local bar and officers detained him. Police then brought Gillette and another witness to view the man, but both witnesses said he didn't quite match the man they had seen in the bar.

While making a flashlight search of the car, officer Gaylen Johnson spotted a near-empty bottle of tequila on the rear floorboard. A further search revealed 32 $1 bills, each with corners from $20 bills neatly attached.

Also recovered from the car were a false beard and mustache and a notebook containing the names of several pool parlors.

Arrested and kept in the Livermore city jail pending the arrival of Secret Service officials was John Charles Coito, 32, of Modesto. Altering currency is a federal crime under Secret Service jurisdiction.

Stolen items include a Marantz brand receiver in a homemade mahogany cabinet, BSR turntable, two Teac tape decks, two Bose speakers, and several prerecorded tapes, with a total value of $1,115.

Each was marked with Frary's driver's license number, A0243753.

Officer Bill Coble saw the car apparently abandoned on the side of the road about 7:45 a.m. Sunday and ran a radio check of the car's license, finding the vehicle to be listed as stolen. He approached the car and looked inside, only to find a woman asleep.

The woman, identified as Jeanette May of San Diego, said she was on her way to Sacramento when the car ran out of gas. A pawn ticket in her purse indictated she had taken the car's 8-track tape player and pawned it in Salinas, police reported.

She was booked on suspicion of auto theft.

Police said the pair apparently intended to break the window of a car parked in front of the market, directly below the broken window.

A dream instructor

"Your dreams are your windows into the past, present and future."

Counselor Ed Garner of Oakland, who discussed dreaming at a recent Anthropos Foundation gathering in Livermore and plans to do more work in the Valley, doesn't mean to sound mystical when he says that.

What he wants to get across is that, "Dreams bring us messages that can help us in our waking life."

Garner believes dreaming is an altered state of consciousness in which ideas and feelings are represented in different ways than they are in everyday waking life. In his workshops at Oakland's Institute for Dreaming, which he heads, he helps people examine their dreams to add a new dimension to their self - knowledge.

"But I never dream!" many people complain to Garner in frustration.

"Everyone dreams — or nearly everyone, with the possible exception of some mystical Yoga adepts," is the response of the dream counselor.

"Scientific research that was begun in the fifties shows that we have four to six periods a night of "REM," or Rapid Eye Movement. In almost every case, the REM periods are dream periods.

"The problem for many people is remembering the dreams."

From the classes and workshops he has attended (one of them with the famous dream researcher Ann Faraday), Garner offers some tips for remembering your dreams: Increase your interest in recalling them, consider them valuable; start a journal to collect your dream impressions; try to wake up slowly and naturally in the morning; when you wake up, lie in bed motionless, eyes closed, trying to let the dream images drift back into your mind until you can "replay" your last dream.

In one case, a woman who claimed she hadn't had a dream in 15 years was instructed by Garner to repeat to each participant in the dreaming group, "I'm going to remember my dreams." The next week, she reported a dream she had had during the week.

"Another method is to set the alarm clock to wake you up every 90 minutes, because the theory is that you dream in 90 - minute cycles," the counselor suggests, making it plain that the idea of thus disturbing one's sleep does not appeal to him personally.

What Garner does in his six - session workshops, besides explaining the nature of dreaming, is to help people think about and learn from the eight - hour mental show they get every night.

Relaxation, art and role - playing are three methods Garner uses to help participants get information from their dreams.

Although he doesn't promise that understanding your dreams will bring instant health and happiness, he does feel, "At least you're better able to understand the circumstances that keep you in a rut."

Recent research has shown that the left side of the human brain is connected to most everyday functions, such as talking and short - term memory, while the right brain governs intuitive thought.

Especially in our Western culture, many right - brain functions such as dreaming don't get the attention they deserve. "We need both modes," Garner asserts.

Garner holds a bachelor's degree in psychology and a master's in counseling from San Francisco State. In addition, he has attended nmany workshops on dreaming to develop his unusual specialty. He recommends the work of anthropologist Carlos Castaneda; "Psychology of Consciousness" by Robert Ornstein; "The Dream Game" and "Dream Power" by Ann Faraday and "Creative Dreaming" by Patricia Garfield as a beginner's bibliography on dreams.

Details on Garner's soon to be announced workshops may be obtained from him, evenings, at 658 - 5777.

He would like assurance for new housing

PLEASANTON — Housing Authority Executive Director Mike Parsons wants to borrow an idea from Livermore and ask the city council to reserve some sewer capacity for the public housing which will replace Komandorski Village.

Parsons feels it's essential that the housing authority get that kind of reserve capacity commitment from the city. Voters in 1972 approved replacement of Komandorski by a 3-1 vote, but at that time the sewer crisis hit and cancelled out the housing authority's efforts to replace the 34 year old "temporary" housing project with brand new structures.

"We're considering the idea of using the concept passed in Livermore in which a number of sewer connections are held in reserve by the city for low income housing development," said Parsons.

"I don't think that would be in conflict with the court decision over Pleasanton's sewer connection allocations," Parsons said, referring to the Morrison Homes case and related cases which led the city to establish a priority list for the limited capacity remaining in its Sunol Boulevard Sewage Treatment Plant.

"I think the city can honor its reservations to other developers and also satisfy the housing authority," Parsons declared.

Livermore City Attorney Robert Logan said that Livermore has little capacity remaining in its sewage treatment plant. The city council decided by resolution to reserve 90 per cent of the capacity for industrial uses, 10 per cent for low income housing.

Logan thinks the resolution would stand a legal test. He doubts there would be a legal test since there really are not that many actual units involved in the 10 per cent quota.

"It's really a vague policy," said Logan. "It says that due to an economic imbalance in the city, owing to the fact we have far more residential development than commercial and industrial, we will take the remaining limited capacity, after 'lots of record' are developed, and allocate the remainder with 90 per cent to industrial and 10 per cent to low income housing."

The policy is consistent with statements in the city's general plan encouraging development of low and moderate income housing and industry and commerce, said Logan.

The Pleasanton general plan has similar sentiments expressed about a balanced community, including fostering a percentage of low and moderate income housing.

Parsons expects to bring the request to the city council soon. Parsons also wants city cooperation on installation of smoke detectors at Komanadorski Village. The housing authority faces a $32 bill for each of 170 detectors which would be installed at Komandorski. He is talking to city staff about the possibility of sharing costs of the units.

The units could be removed from Komandorski Village and installed in the housing which will replace the housing project.

Allen faces two challengers

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Incumbent Bay Area Rapid Transit District director Robert S. Allen of Livermore will face two challengers in the November election.

Danville attorney John R. McCardle met yesterday's 5 p.m. deadline by filing completed papers in Contra Costa County, and postal supervisor John D. Ferguson of Hayward met the deadline in Alameda County

Allen, a cost analyst with the Southern Pacific Railroad, was elected to the nine - member board two years ago and is in the first wave facing reelection BART directors had been appointed by county supervisors.

The board's self - styled gadfly, he pushed for a grand jury investigation of fellow directors Richard O. Clark and Elmer Cooper, charging the two had abused their directors' expense accounts. The two were reprimanded, but not indicted.

Clark, representing Oakland, is the board's former president and Cooper, of San Francisco, its current president.

San Francisco directors Ella Hill Hutch and John Kirkwood and Clark and Allen all face reelection this fall.

BART near extension

SACRAMENTO — The financially troubled Bay Area Rapid Transit District is one step away from a six-month extension of the half-cent sales tax paid in the three BART counties.

The State Assembly yesterday approved a two-house conference committee compromise form of a bill that would continue the tax through June, 1978. The joint committee met Friday to iron out differences in the legislation.

The bill by Assemblyman John Knox (D-Richmond) provides for a continuation of existing services, including feeder bus service to the valley and northeastern Contra Costa County, but would prohibit the district from extending rail service until at least July, 1977. It also would require any later extension to pay its own way.

The Assembly approved the bill on a 54-2 vote. It must clear the Senate before it can be sent to Gov. Edmund Brown, Jr.

Fantasy-land mural

"Children's Fantasy" is the title of this 45-foot long mural in a hallway at Jackson Avenue School in Livermore. Looking lovingly on their work of art are part of the 16 teachers who worked on the project for 2½ days. Art Grant, the bearded gentleman with glasses, an art instructor at St. Mary's College, instructed the class in mural painting. Most of the teachers are from Livermore. Jackson principal Don Larson, an artist himself, brought Grant and his mural class to the school. They used politec acrylic paint known for its long lasting quality. The mural depicts Dorothy and the Wizard of Oz going through fantasy-land.

Raymond blasts new road

Isabel cop-out

Valerie Raymond, supervisorial candidate for the First District of Alameda County, has expressed her concern that the impending construction of Isabel Avenue from Stanley Boulevard to Interstate 580 was being used as a "cop-out" to avoid planning for El Charro Road extension.

"The extension of Isabel Avenue to the freeway is a project that has been planned for a long time and I am pleased that the county has finally indicated a willingness to work with Livermore for its construction. West side residents of Livermore need better freeway access and it would help take through traffic out of downtown Livermore.

"It is unreasonable to assume that the construction of Isabel Avenue will provide a solution to the problem of truck traffic through Pleasanton. As I have stated before, I believe the county should begin to honor its commitment to extend El Charro Road by designating its firm alignment while some options still remain, since excavation of this area by gravel mining is rapidly limiting the possibilities.

"To date the county supervisors seem to be far more zealous in their protection of Rhodes and Jamieson's and of Kaiser Sand and Gravel's essentially private use of a public interchange, than they have been in their willingness to solve Pleasanton's truck traffic problem."

Mori on bridge

"I've favored a new Dumbarton Bridge for several years now, and I'm happy to see that it has moved closer to actually being built."

That was the reaction of Assemblyman Floyd Mori (D-Pleasanton) to state assembly approval of SB 1975.

"The present bridge is 50 years old. It's narrow, rickety, and generally unsafe," Mori said.

The legislature voted construction of a new Dumbarton Bridge in 1972. However, construction was subject to the approval of sites for the bridge's western approaches by Atherton, Palo Alto and Menlo Park. Those peninsula communities have still not approved the approaches, and construction has never begun, Mori's office said.

No such approval will be needed if the bill is signed by the governor.

Youth bill

Assemblyman Floyd Mori announced that his bill to allow dischargees from the Youth Authority to become eligible for employment as peace officers for the YA passed the state senate after Lieutenant Governor Mervyn Dymally cast the tie-breaking vote.

If signed by the governor, AB 1713 would allow persons honorably discharged from the YA eligible to apply as peace officers for the institution.

"AB 1713 recognizes the unique insight and understanding that a rehabilitated delinquent can bring to bear upon the problems of youth experiencing the same problems he did," Mori said.

"Presently, Youth Authority dischargees are not eligible for employment as peace officers by any public agency. This bill amakes an exception where it is clear that the results will be beneficial."

Bring back the windmill

LIVERMORE — A veritable sea of windmills to generate electricity through naturally - occurring wind power, pollution - free — the idea of a team of physics technicians or a fanciful science fiction writer?

No — the end proposal of an experiment conducted by 17-year-old Maile Apau, a high school honors student from Hawaii and winner of one of twelve national scholarships from the Energy Research and Development Administration.

Using wooden models in a wind/smoke tunnel, Maile demonstrated the wind power potentials of 12 different locations on the island of Oahu. With windmills set up on the spots with the most consistent winds, electricity could be generated pollution-free, and possibly clear up the garden islands' dirty air problems, Maile reasoned.

While Maile was building her small - scale simulations, researchers at the Lawrence Livermore Lab were conducting full-scale scientific studies also on Oahu to evaluate the possibility of wind power as an alternative to burning fossil fuels for generating electricity.

So, as a part of the ERDA scholarship, Maile travelled to LLL from her Hawaiian home last week to observe Lab scientists gathering information through sophisticated computers and associated machinery.

"I was worried about pollution," Maile said during a break from her observation of the Lab's techniques. "Hawaii is a nice place and I don't want to see it polluted."

So between taking flute classes and studying physics, she built a series of topographic models simulating the physical contours of certain mountains in Hawaii. By placing these in the smoke tunnel to simulate wind, she found that the best location for windmills would probably be on the northeast end of the big island.

"Wind tends to accelerate as it rises," she said, pointing to possible future sites for super - size windmills that could help alleviate the energy crisis.

Lab personnel then showed her the sophiscated equipment they use, in conjunction with the Air Force's world-wide weather reporting system, to instantly flash wind and weather conditions on video display screens or computer print-out maps.

"They're fascinating — I really like the computers," Maile smiled, enthusiastically.

"We've tired her out at the end of every day, but she comes back the next morning wanting more," says her Livermore host Christine Sherman, a physicist in the Atmospheric and Geophysical Sciences group.

Maile lost none of that enthusiasm even when told that electrical generation wasn't a real problem on Hawaii, since consistent 75-degree days and nights precludes the need for heaters or air conditioners.

"Too many cars is the real problem. When you breath the air, you feel like coughing. I'm worried about it, but it's not as bad as Los Angeles," Maile said.

After the Lab made initial simulations to find the most likely spots for a windmill, two scientists were sent there to make more precise measurements. If "all goes well," there could be windmills on test sites in a few years, Lab spokespersons said.

But thoughts of windmills and scientific applications of unproven theories had left Maile's quick mind. It was noon, and she had lined up another importment assignment on this mainland tour.

"She's promised to teach all the guys in the cafeteria how to do the Hula," a Lab public relations man said, excitedly. —by Bill Cauble

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, Democratic vice presidential candidate, and State Public Utilities Commissioner Robert Batinovich pause momentarily after a brief conversation at an informal reception for the candidate in San Francisco last night. Batinovich said he turned over copies of documents received by the PUC porporting to detail a conspiracy and existence of a cartel attempting to squeeze U.S. firms out of the uranium market. Sen. Mondale will speak at Monday's Labor Day gathering at the Alameda County Fairgrounds in Pleasanton.

Harris sentencing stalls

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A last burst of legal disputes in the tangled William and Emily Harris trial delayed sentencing of the couple Monday while defense lawyers battled for a new trial on grounds of judicial and jury misconduct.

With the Harrises facing a possible life sentence on kidnaping and robbery convictions, their chief attorney accused the judge of secretly instructing jurors not to discuss their verdicts with attorneys after the trial. He said this violated the Harrises' rights.

Leonard Weinglass, demanding that Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler disqualify himself, said the judge's warning to jurors that "anything you say may be misconstrued" was an improper effort to stop the defense from developing data to challenge the verdict.

Brandler, apparently stunned by the accusation, admitted he had indeed met privately with the jurors in his chambers following their dismissal Aug. 10 but denied he said anything improper.

He said a court reporter had recorded the meeting but attorneys were never given a copy of that record or told about the meeting.

At Weinglass' request, the court reporter fetched her notes and read the text of the meeting aloud.

It showed the 66-year-old judge had told jurors: "We find from experience that after a case of this notoriety when statements are made to the press or investigators, the statements are sometimes taken out of context and are used in connection with a motion for a new trial."

He also said, "There is no requirement that you be interviewed by anyone, because anything you say may be miscontrued and, on a motion for a new trial, you can be asked to testify.

"So you can use your own good judgment on whether you want to be interviewed," he told them.

He also read to them a request from the trial press corps for a jury interview.

At the conclusion, one juror declared, "I want to get out." Another said, "I want to go home." A third said, "I don't want any more."

One juror asked the judge how the press would get their addresses, and another said, "Just sneaky."

The judge ended the meeting by saying that if jurors do agree to be interviewed, "whatever you say is going to be brought back and called to your attention at some subsequent time."

At the conclusion of the reading, Weinglass declared, "This is nothing but a clear message to the jurors not to cooperate."

Weinglass said that following their dismissal, many jurors refused to talk to defense counsel about their verdict.

Defense attorney Mark Rosenbaum declared that the allegations of misconduct during the Harris trial made it imperative to ferret out all information.

A real volunteer boss

Betty Stallings has been appointed the first paid director of the Volunteer Bureau, Valley branch, effective Sept 1.

Mrs. Stallings had been serving as director voluntarily.

The bureau serves Livermore, Pleasanton, Dublin, Sunol and San Ramon and has been in existence the past 10 months.

Mrs. Stallings says the response to the program during the first year has "far exceeded our expectations." Two-hundred and fifteen requests were received from 45 social service agencies serving the valley area.

"We interviewed and placed over 200 community people in 240 volunteer positions and matched nearly 30 groups with community projects. Our weekly newspaper column has attracted many talented people looking for an interesting and challenging volunteer position," notes Mrs. Stallings.

"Some of our future goals include establishing a court referral program (i.e. people doing volunteer work to pay off fines), developing a council of social service agencies, establishing a volunteer youth referral program and developing training and recruiting seminars for volunteers and coordinators in our community."

Summer office hours for the Volunteer Bureau are 9 a.m. to noon Tuesday through Thursday. Starting Wednesday, the bureau located at 287 Rose Ave. in Pleasanton will be open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Volunteer Bureau phone is 462-3570.

Ruling on a legal devise for credit

SACRAMENTO — A "judgement of confession" — a legal devise generally incorporated into a credit agreement to permit a creditor to obtain a judgement against a debtor — is invalid in a consumer transaction if signed without the advice of an attorney, State Attorney General Evelle J. Younger recently ruled.

The opinion, issued in response to an inquiry from Assemblyman William M. Thomas (R-Bakersfield), says state civil code recently was amended so that a "judgement of confession" for a debt of liability arising out of a consumer transaction is valid only if an attorney representing the debtor certifies the debtor has been advised of the rights waived in the procedure.

"The manifest purpose of this amended statute is to insure that such waivers are made voluntarily and intelligently," according to Younger's opinion.

The rationale of the amended section, he said, "is precisely that confessions of judgement are special cases, in which the common understanding of consumers regarding this area of the law is presumptively inadequate to ensure that they are waiving their rights to notice and hearing voluntarily and intelligently."

The opinion was prepared by deputy attorney general Jane Hanson.

Sponsors for Fallon replica

DUBLIN — The special committee to build a facsimile of the Fallon House decided Thursday night to approach local merchants and service groups with the idea of sponsoring various fixtures of the historic replica.

Jim Gahl, chairman of the group, said that the group will provide merchants and service groups with a list of small projects from which they can choose one or more to sponsor. For example, a club can pay for a door, shutters, a roof, and many other items, said Gahl.

Total cost of the replica of the home which was burned accidently by the Twin Valley Fire Training Academy is estimated to be $10,000 or less, depending on amount of volunteer labor.

The committee has opened a bank account at the Wells Fargo Bank on Amador Valley Boulevard in Dublin. Anyone wishing to donate to it should make the check payable to the Jeremiah Fallon House Fund.

State the oil boss

SACRAMENTO — State regulations governing oil, gas and geothermal well - drilling operations preempt local regulations, the state attorney general recently ruled.

The opinion was issued in response to an inquiry from Harold W. Bertholf, supervisor for the division of oil and gas of the State Department of Conservation which regulates the industry.

The attorney general's opinion says that provisions in the State Public Resources Code covering the regulation of energy production operations have been amended in recent years for the additional purposes of protecting and conserving the state's fuel resources.

Younger indicated that what one court referred to as a "checkerboard of regulations" could frustrate the state's expanding interest and statutory power to conserve and protect these resources.

The need to conserve and protect the state's finite energy resources, according to Younger "transcends local boundries and interests."

The opinion was prepared by deputy attorney general Dennis B. Goldstein.

Lilly of the Valley

Going to a class reunion can be an exciting experience especially following a certain number of years. However, I had an opportunity to attend something more exciting and refreshing than seeing old classmates and I looked forward to it very eagerly.

The event was the return to our old surroundings in San Jose after ten years living in Pleasanton.

First of all for one who doesn't do too much traveling on the freeways, it was an experience to be totally surrounded by the cement monsters. Freeways below you, freeways above you and even freeways that lead to nowhere!

The modern high rise building after daily seeing open fields with cattle grazing, old edifices being restored, and two lane streets with not too many stop lights, was like a little country girl returning to the big city. And believe this little old country gal says, "The can have all of it."

The enjoyment of the day was seeing and visiting with old friends. The "My, you haven't changed, well, maybe a few pounds heavier, but it looks good, no grey hairs yet?" etc, etc is facinating but perhaps a lot of politeness."

The real joy came when the attention was turned to the children. Now, with them, it's "My, how you have changed; how old are you now? Oh, really, I can't believe it." It's much nicer having the attention focused on the offspring than yourself. The offspring however, don't feel that way! "That's one of the 'rights' we have as being parents," our youngsters were informed. Something they may look forward to some day as parents.

The occasion was for the wedding of "that little girl next door." Years go by and you don't feel any different or older until "that little girl next door" whom you once babysat walks down the aisle a beautiful young lady entering another threshold of life.

Those big, beautiful brown eyes which won your heart over everytime she looked at you now complement her clear, delicate, beautiful complexion and bright smile. She was definitely a radiant bride as she walked down the aisle on the arms of her father who himself must have had a multitude of thoughts going through his mind. He supported a few grey hairs, probably obtained because of his concern that she reach this particular moment in life without too many heartaches, disappointments and being sure the path she chose to walk in life was the right one.

It was obvious from the lump that caught in his throat when it was time to, "and who gives this young lady in marriage?" the "her mother and I" was another difficult task to the final scene of their responsibility. She now belongs to someone else. Their love for her will never cease, concerns for the young couple will still be with them but it's their life from here on.

The pleasure of seeing that firey little redhead now blossomed into full adulthood was another joy. "Why that can't be Linda," you say to yourself. Little Linda who along with our, at that time, "little" Douggie Dee climbed into our Thunderbird parked in the driveway and between the two of them managed to "drive" out into the street!

It wasn't until the big crash was heard that any of us knew what they two were engaged in. Fortunately the impact was minor into another car with no damages being done to either cars or kids. That is, to the kids, until the panic wore off then there were a couple of sore bottoms!

The scars from each others arms from biting one another have also disappeared. The fighting over those toys that no longer exist is all of the past. "If these two, she's 17, he's 18, even strike a conversation at the reception," you think, "it will be amazing."

Going through the reception line and hearing, "You're Mrs. Ault?" was a surprise. Reply, "yes," thinking "Who is this good looking boy?" The thought was immediately answered with, "I'm Tim Mitchell." Now the reaction comes with a scream and a big hug, "Little Timmy!" The husky voice gives a definite response of, "It's Tim now, Mrs. Ault." Okay correction made "My you're a handsome young man now." That certainly took care of my stupidity in calling this obvious gentleman, "Timmy."

Seeing all the old neighbors was like an old time gathering in the backyard. There's Sally, you learn she is now serving on the school board, she'll be a good one, that Sally. And over there is Jane smiling brightly as always with her three lovely grown daughters accomplished all by herself. She too is a great gal.

And there is that "drive-in dairy" family. Look at old smug Bob, smug and bald as ever, no less no more. Ann his lovely wife hasn't changed one bit, why she hasn't even put on an ounce of weight! Not fair some of these gals!

It was fun. We depart from the scene hoping we don't wait another 10 years before getting together again. All kinds of promises are made — "Let's keep them," we say more than once, out loud as well as to ourselves.

The saying has been proven, "New friends are like sliver; old frineds friends are like gold; keep on making new friends, but don't forget the old!" — they are a special treasure in life to hold.

Not setting her child's footsteps

Former Olympic figure skating champion Peggy Flemming gestures Monday as she tells newsmen that she will not attempt to push her first child — expected in five months — into the glamorous life of show business. "I don't care whether my child becomes an Olympic champion or famous," she said. Peggy has just completed a series of shows with Holiday on Ice in New York and taped a fall TV special to be shown in October.

Free flu vaccine for MD patients

Free anti-influenza innoculations for victims of muscular dystrophy or related diseases are being offered by the Golden Bay Chapter gf the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Two types of flu vaccine are now available — one called "monovalent" and effective against the common A-Victoria strain of flu virus, the other called "bivalent" and effective against both common flu and swin flu.

The Golden Bay Chapter of MDA will pay for monovalent innoculations of all muscular dystrophy patients. The shots can be given by the patients' own physicians or by the physician at a local MDA clinic.

MDA urges that all patients check with their physicians about which innoculation, if any, they should receive. children and adults afflicted with neuromuscular disease are generally considered "high risk" and should receive a flu shot annually.

It is not recommended that bivalent innoculations, which contain swine flu, be given to patients under the age of 25 years. Adverse side effects have been reported in more than one-fourth of the cases where persons under 25 have received swine flu innoculations.

lifestyle

Patients over the age of 25 may receive bivalent flu vaccine at the Golden Bay Chapter's expense

The MDA clinic serving this area is located at Herrick Memorial Hopspital in Berkeley. Half of the funds which support MDA's free medical services and research are raised by the annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon, to be seen in the Bay Area over KTVU from Sunday, Sept. 5 at 6 p.m. to Monday, Sept. 6 at 4 p.m.

TV specials for older folks

"Over Easy," two half-hour specials for older Americans produced by KQED in San Francisco, will be aired on Channel 9 television Monday, Sept. 13 and Tuesday, Sept. 14 at 8 p.m.

Hosted by Hugh Downs and starring Phyllis Diller and Rudy Vallee, the two shows are the introductory programs for a daily television series created for, about and with older Americans. The series is projected to air in the fall of '77 on the Public Broadcasting Service.

The format of the series is designed around individual segments such as — "In Person" interviews with well - known personalities; "Cooking with Kathy" in a practical approach to preparing meals for one or two; "Keeping Posted" or mini-features on useful ideas; "Lifestyle" prtraits of remarkable older people doing interesting things; and "The Question Is" forum in which viewer's questions dealing with everyday emotional and psychological problems will be answered by Dr. Carl Eisdorfer.

Pastoral view of a suburban manor, removed from the main line.

SAN RAMON — Folks, especially youngsters, hold train tracks to be in the public domain.

The best efforts of cops and railway agents aside, people ride horses and bikes on train lines, perform feats of balance on them, and in general, cavort freely where they don't belong.

Two weeks ago East Bay Regional Park District announced it covets ownership of a Southern Pacific right of way stretching the breadth of San Ramon Valley.

Park people want those 16 miles of rail lines for the public.

How redundant.

The public has long employed SP's nearly abandoned San Ramon line for recreational use. All the park district can do is legitimize free play.

Motorcyclists enjoy the rutted road bed that snakes in a vague parallel of Interstate 680. Horseback riders find it a safe shortcut through suburban traffic. Ingenious youngsters roll their autos onto the rails, deflate the tires for a snug fit on the iron, then coast down the line like a locomotive.

It may not be wise, and it is certainly not legal. But all this iron horse play can be accomplished with a modicum of safety since the SP almost never uses its San Ramon line.

In fact, it has requested Interstate Commerce Commission permission to abandon the route.

That's why the park district indicated interest in the right of way. There is a federally subsidized program to convert abandoned train lines for public recreation. Hiking and horse trails have been established where the great belching monsters of steam and diesel once chugged.

San Ramon Valley could become a target for a similar project if the park people have their way. From Dublin to Walnut Creek folks may be able to explore a strand of Contra Costa County few see.

But what would they find? What would they do on a narrow gauge freeway for explorers? What is the San Ramon-SP trail like?

Well, from the back of a Kawasaki 350 Enduro motorcycle, it is a bumpy, thorny, gritty timeline — a linear history of the San Ramon Valley.

Alas, it hardly reflects the great heritage of the railroad. Those ribbons of steel are rusted today. Only 150 box cars occupy the line between Dublin and Walnut Creek, and they are abandoned between an orchard and a new subdivision.

But there are lessons in sociology, economics ecology, and to be sure, history, on both sides of the track.

The San Ramon trail runs straight between Dublin and Danville. It archs gently to Alamo and then dashes under I-680 for an entrance in Walnut Creek.

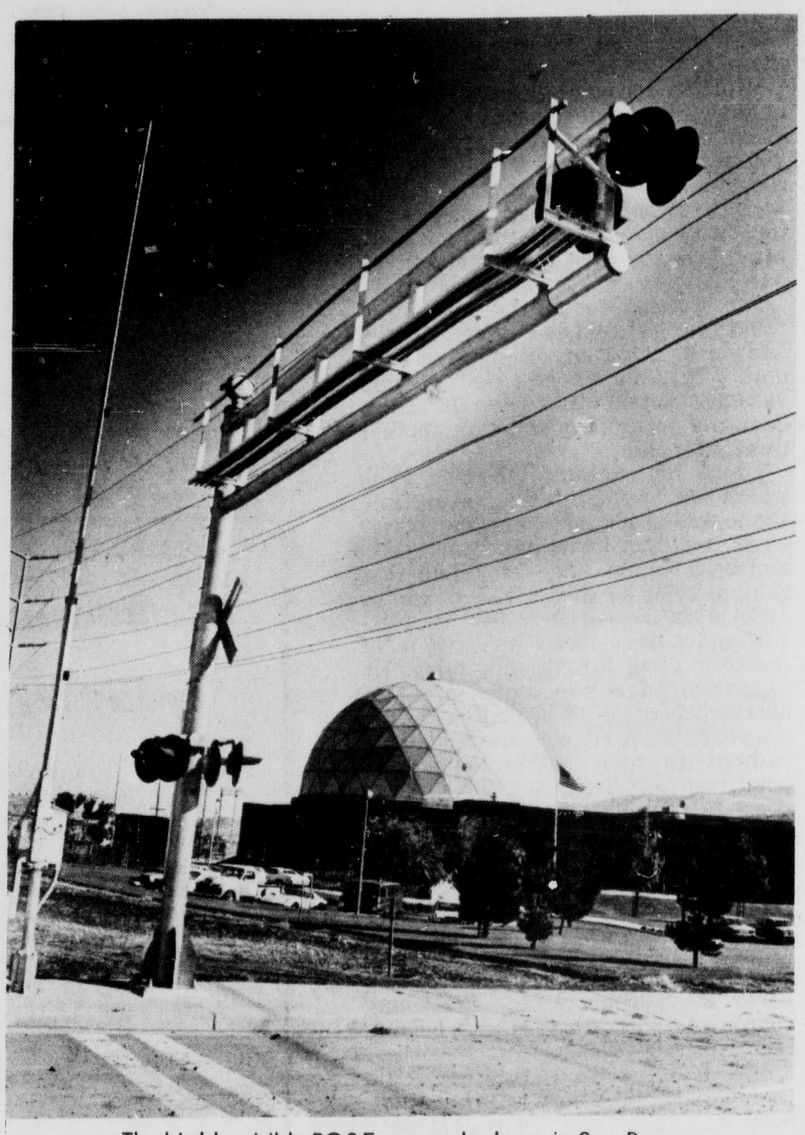
It borders four high schools, Dublin California, San Ramon and Las Lomas. The oldest was constructed in 1910. California opened three years ago.

San Ramon trail affords a peak through bedroom windows at Komandorski Village on the Pleasanton border. It departs Alamo in the back yard of a suburban mansion. It bisects one golf course and laps against two private swim clubs in Danville.

Few orchards shade SP's decaying tracks these days. Suburban sprawl, which could transform San Ramon Valley into a 20 mile grove of stucco and shingles, has uprooted the trees.

There is cool serenity, however, as the tracks pierce Danville and Alamo neighborhoods, crowded with oak and pine and willows. In San Ramon, SP trail passes the gamut of industry, from the Rhodes and Jamieson plant feeding home builders, to the gleaming PG&E dome, symbol of scientific research.

Hiking purists may not revel in the challenge of the San Ramon Valley road bed. It is flat, dry, and seldom loses touch with suburbia. There is no national park type grandeur.



The highly visible PG&E research dome in San Ramon.

The trail will better serve residents of the region — folks who marvel at the lime green hills in springtime, and the muted flame of trees in fall.

The trail will offer a new view of the same pleasing sights.

It will reveal the backside of impressive Alamo estates, where thoroughbred race horses loll in the shade. It will reach close to olden foothills that from I-680 seem little more than a painted backdrop.

SP trail will also bring home the perilous future of San Ramon Valley. great deal of development is underway within view of the railroad track. Walnut groves have been levelled for homes and streets Hillsides have been cut away.

From a different vantage point, the construction is ominous. It stands in stark contrast to the shades and patterns of nature.

It's ironic that the railroad, perhaps the biggest contributor to development in America, should provide a vehicle for the study of land encroachment.

The hope is that SP trail becomes a part of the park system before it is too late.

astrograph

For Tuesday, Aug. 31, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a tendency today to bungle your best opportunities. You'd be wise not to flaunt your usual air of self-assurance.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's easy to make promises in order to expedite matters, but they could be costly for you. Bite off only what you can chew today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're likely to rely too much on the other guy today, and he on you. An important project will remain on dead center because of your collective attitudes.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Play is play and work is work and never the twain shall meet. Treat your responsibilities today with the respect they deserve.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Okay, so you're a lucky person, but sometimes Dame Fortune is fickle. You're not on her preferred list today. Tread lightly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're apt to make commitments today that you're not too serious about keeping. Unfortunately, others are taking them in deadly earnest.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Extravagance and indifference are twin bugaboos for you today. If you give in to them don't wonder later why your bankbook glows with red ink.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Sales resistance is a dirty word for you today. Be prudent, or you'll wind up with a bunch of costly items you don't need.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're tooting your own horn a little too loudly today. It could be a sour note to others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Friends are willing to assist you today, but only to a limited degree. It's not a smart move to press them too severely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be hopeful today, but also be realistic. Don't believe you can take every lemon and make it into lemondade.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This could be a day of achievement for you, provided you're willing to pay the price. Forget about a free ride.

Your Birthday

South ruffed the second diamond and went into communion with nature. He knew he had overbid a trifle and the slam was not a good one. There was a simple way to play the hand. Cash the king of hearts and hope for a 2-2 trump break.

South decided that trumps just weren't going to behave that nicely. Then he worked out a complicated way to go after the slam. He cashed dummy's king-jack of clubs and was glad to see he was right about clubs not breaking. Then he ruffed a diamond and ran off the rest of his trumps.

The last trump lead squeezed West. He had to throw away a heart to keep the high diamond. The last diamond was thrown from dummy then and four heart tricks gave South his slam.

"Horseshoes!" sputtered West. "And to think I could have beaten you with a spade shift."

"No, you would not have," replied South. "I would cash my king of hearts, lead a trump to dummy and start the hearts. East would ruff the fourth lead. I would overruff, go to dummy with the last trump and cash that fifth heart for my contract."

Ask the Jacobys

Here is a tough question from Missouri. You open one heart with: ♠ J 2 ♥ A K 10 9 5 ♦ A K 7 2 ♣ 8 3. Your partner responds one spade. You bid two diamonds — your partner, two spades. What do you do now?

With an ordinary partner we bid three spades. With an overbidder we pass.

Altamont oval roars again

No sooner had super modified competition been scrapped for the remainder of the Altamont Speedway season than stock cars roared in to take its place on the wind-plagued oval.

Sunday, the inaaugural Duke Southard School 100 will be contested at the quick half-mile oval midway between Livermore and Tracy.

Thirty drivers have already entered from all over California with big names Sonny Easley and Ivan Baldwin rated the favorites to beat out the field for the $5000 in guaranteed prize money.

Easley, up from Van Nuys, will drive a Camaro owned by former Indianapolis sensation Parnelli Jones in trying for his 14th win in 17 starts this season.

Baldwin, of Modesto, will guide Jack McCoy's Chevy Nova. He's taken 15 main events in 20 starts this season. Local rooters will have some one to cheer for as Livermore's Rich Van Fossen will his 1964 Chevelle. Van Fossen's arch-rival, NASCAR - Late Model Sportsman Stockton point leader Dan Reed, will also be on hand.

Another major drawing card should be Southard graduate Arlene Hiss, who will compete if she fails to qualify for the California 500 this weekend at Ontario. She'll drive one of Southard's Chevelles if she goes to the post at Altamont.

Hiss made national news early this season when she became the first women to drive in the United States Auto Club's Indy-type division, in a race at Phoenix, Ariz.

The Southard School is one of a very few schools for auto racing drivers; offering five days of classroom and behind-the-wheel oval track instruction.

Hiss, who has fallen behind Janet Guthrie in the Publicity Derby, is the most famous of Southard's former pupils. Sunday's card will be the Duke's first try at race promotion.

Other top drivers slated to compete are Ted Fritz of Modesto, Billy Clarkson of Sacramento; Harold Long of Carson City, Nev., Bob Strauss of Lucerne, Ron Gravelle of Pacific Grove, Dick Whalen of San Jose, John Philpott of Tracy, Al Abdllah of Stockton and Menlo Park's Dan Bishop.

Sunday's program includes a six-lap trophy dash, a 25-lap "C" main event, a 50-lap "B" main event and a 100-lap "A" main event. Qualifying starts at 1 p.m. with racing scheduled to get underway an hour later.

Bears' Roth shuns cancer for stardom

BERKELEY — It almost requires a fictional amalgam to come up with a decent composite of Joe Roth.

You toss in one portion of Clark Kent (changing in a telephone booth), add a dash of Joe Palooka, spice it with a touch of Li'l Abner (sans Daisy Mae) and finish it off with a veneer of Frank Merriwell.

The result: one prospective All-American quarterback for the University of California.

He has already made the mandatory pilgrimage to Hugh Hefner's palatial penthouse on the north side of Chicago. There, when not ducking the pass rush of Playboy bunnies, he was memorialized in living color, along with his mythical All-America teammates, for a forthcoming issue of Playboy.

The folks back home in Jerome, Idaho, won't have to blush when it comes out. Joe will be fully clothed in California blue and gold.

The California golden look of him is immediately obvious when he enters old Harmon Gymnasium of the Berkeley campus, and the office of resident flack, John McCasey.

McCasey in an open-faced young Irishman who, with admirable verve, wants to show off a young scholar touted as the finest passer of a football in collegiate circles.

Ample blond hair curls all around Joe's head in neat waves, a crowning wreath for a well-built young man who stands an erect 6 feet 2 and a half inches. He wears one of those horizontal striped rugby polo shirts that are in vogue, sandy corduroy pants and scuffed gym shoes.

When he walks — we are strolling down to Martino's on Shattuck for a cheeseburger — his toes turn in markedly. That pigeon-toed waddle does not seem to encumber him on a football field.

There in only one mark which seems to distinguish Joe Roth from a lot of kids his age on this sunny day in the Berkeley hills. It is on the left side of his face, a light red welt that runs from above his ear (covered by the hairline) down past his jaw and terminates in a quick veer on his neck.

It tells more about Joe Roth than the statistical sheets in McCasey's office: "In 1975 Roth hit on 126 of 226 passes for 1,880 yards and 14 touchdowns, for 8.4 yards per completion. His accuracy rate was 55.8 per cent for the season ..."

Two years ago at this time, young Roth had no idea he was going to be a football player at the University of California. He was wondering how long he'd be alive.

Joe was sitting in a doctor's office in San Diego in May 1974 and listening to the most desperate words:

"You've got cancer. A malignant melanoma. We've got to go in and cut it out. I don't know what we'll find. You might live three months. You might live a year. Maybe we'll catch it all and you'll be O.K."

There had been this mole near his left ear. Joe remembers irritating it when he was shaving. He had a tough time stopping the bleeding. Then, playing football at Grossmont Junior College (in his home town of El Cajon, Calif., where San Diego spills over into suburbs), the helmet kept rubbing it raw.

He went to a doctor. The doctor burned it out. But the mole returned. And continued to aggravate him. He was finally sent to a dermatologist, who excised it and assured him his trouble was over. But as a precaution, tissue was sent to a lab for testing.

At the time, the end of his freshman year at Grossmont, Joe's parents were in the process of moving to Jerome, Idaho — his father, an aircraft plant supervisor, is retired. On campus one morning, Joe was told that an appointment had been set up with a doctor in San Diego — and that his parents were coming in from Idaho.

"I knew something was up," he says. "But I wasn't prepared for what the doctor told me that morning — that I had cancer. They operated on me right away, that afternoon."

It was a Monday, and for three days Joe sat looking out his hospital room, watching the airplanes coming in to land at the San Diego airport.

"The longest three days I ever spent," he recalls On Friday, he was discharged and given a clean bill of health. The surgery had cut all the way down to the lumph nodes in his neck.

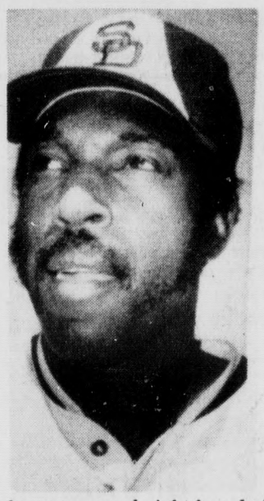
McCovey to Oakland

Veteran Willie McCovey was sold to the Oakland A's Monday, after less than three seasons with the San Diego Padres, a San Diego spokesman said.

In Oakland, A's Manager Chuck Tanner said McCovey would be placed on the roster Wednesday. He plans to use McCovey at first base, and as a designated hitter with Billy Williams and late inning pinch-hitter.

"Now we have an extra first-baseman and we have two great left-handed designated hitters," said Tanner.

The A's also announced plans to call up Nate Colbert from its Tucson farm club on Wednesday. Colbert is an outfielder, first baseman and right-handed designated hitter, also formerly with the Padres.



Billie Jean not sure of Renee

NEW YORK — Billie Jean King wants to count the male chromosomes before deciding whether the transsexual, Dr. Renee Richards, should be allowed to play in women's tennis events.

"I haven't made up my mind," the outspoken champion of women's lib said Monday. "She may have undergone an operation to become a female but you must remember that she still has male hormones.

"More than that, she has played men's tennis for 30 years. That is a tremendous advantage. It is an advantage that should be weighed before she is permitted to compete with women."

Without coming out flatly and saying so, Billie Jean left the impression that she probably would line up with her fellow women pros in opposing Dr. Richards' entry in the women's singles division of the U. S. Open.

"If I had played in men's tournaments since I took up the game, I would be a better tennis player," Billie Jean insisted. "This is something you have to consider.

"Also, there are going to be more and more such operations. So a firm policy has to be made some time. As I said, I am not really sure at the moment."

Billie Jean, 32, winner of six Wimbledon and four U. S. women's titles, has established herelf as one of the free thinkers on social issues and a stern critic of sexual bias in tennis.

She has been credited with helping build the women's tour from a hamburger, one-night stand operation to a $1 million yearly enterprise. She was the first woman to reach $1 million in tennis prize money and she was the first president of the Women's Tennis Association.

The WTA threatened a boycott if Dr. Richards, a 42-year-old eye surgeon who as Richard Raskind was a ranking 35-and-over player before undergoing a change of sex a year ago, were allowed in the U. S. Open. The issue was ducked when the U. S. Tennis Association ordered a chromosome test for all women players, a formality which Dr. Richards refused.

Dr. Richards, 42, gained the semifinals in the Tennis Week Open at South Orange, N. J. last weekend before losing to Lea Antonopolis.

Billie Jean attended a World Team Tennis awards luncheon Monday in New York, presided over by her husband, Larry, president of the league.

Steelers to repeat as AFC Champs?

Step right up and see the Pittsburgh Steelers on the circus highwire. Watch Franco Harris and Ernie Holmes sway hand-in-hand as spotlights bring glitter to every sequin on their bulging tights.

"It's like a tightrope act," says Coach Chuck Noll, the ringleader whose team wants to follow two tough acts with an unprecedented third straight Super Bowl title.

"If you look down, you can get dizzy and fall. We try not to look look too far ahead or too far behind either.

"We try to keep narrow vision."

To Noll, the concern now is not whether the Steelers prove The Greatest Football Show on Earth. It's whether they can win the Central Division of the American Football Conference.

Last year, Pittsburgh was 12-2 in regular season, and the two divisional runnersup did not lose a game outside the AFC-Central, perhaps the toughest division in pro football.

The Cincinnati Bengals, 11-3 and the "wild card" playoff entry, lost twice to Pittsburgh and once to the Cleveland Browns. The revitalized Houston Oilers, 10-4, lost only to the Bengals and Steelers, twice each.

And though the tradition-rich Browns finished last at 3-11, they won three of their last five games.

It's still a good bet the AFC Central will send even it's runnerup to the playoffs, as it has done with "wild card" entries three of the past four seasons.

And it's possible that "wild card" might go to Pittsburgh.

"Miami had to contend with being asked if their teams were as great as the earlier Green Bay teams," said Steeler linebacker Andy Russell.

"People ask us if we can win our division. As a result, birthday on a team with only four players over 30, gave serious just didn't want to wake up 20 years from now and tell myself, "Maybe you should have gone after that third straight Super Bowl."

It was also an uncertain winter for tackle Joe Greene, who sustained a nerve injury that led to weakening of his left arm last year. He's back in the lineup; only time will tell if he's back in form. "I can play a game," says Greene. "Whether it'll be like what I want it to be, I'll just have to wait and see." Steve Furness, who filled in ably for Greene, gives solid insurance at defensive tackle and end.

Another Steeler defensive tackle, Ernie Holmes, faces an Oct. 4 trial in Texas for alleged possession of cocaine, but it may be delayed until next year. "I hope I am not going to prison," says Holmes.

Jack Lambert, Dwight White and Mike Wagner resume play this week after being sidelined with injuries for several games, including losses to the Giants and Cowboys.

"Disagree with me and I'll pinch your head off," Lambert says in a radio commercial.

Pittsburgh is without disgruntled backup quarterback Joe Gilliam, cut after missing team meetings in the spring.

Rookie Mike Kruczek of Boston College succeeds Gilliam, and rookie running back Jack Deloplaine, a sixth-round pick from Salem College in West Virginia, leads Pittsburgh in preseason rushing.

Then there are the likes of Franco Harris, Terry Bradshaw and Lynn Swann, operating behind a tough, flexible offensive line tutored by Coach Dan "Bad Rad" Radakovich.

"We were much better on offense last year," Noll says.

Noll spent some of his offseason at the controls of his new twin-engined plane, but he's not the only amateur pilot in the AFC Central.

Defensively, the Bengals made a trade to get end Coy Bacon. Another newcomer is rookie linebacker Bo Harris of Louisiana State University.

PROPERTY DESCRIPTION EXPLANATION

Except for property previously tax sold, the following list records properties on which taxes for the 1975 - 1976 Fiscal Year remained unpaid as of 5:00 p.m., June 30, 1976.

It is required by law that the name of the assessee of the property as of March 1, 1975, be published even though the property has since been transferred to a new owner who failed to pay the taxes.

Property hereinafter listed, except property assessed by the State Board of Equalization is described by reference to Assessor's Maps on file in the office of the Assessor, County of Alameda.

Separated by hyphens, the three numerals under the heading "Description of Property" designate successively the Assessor's Map Book, Block and Parcel number. For example, "55-5555-55" is the designation for property described as Assessor's Map Book 55, Block 5555, Parcel 55. In some cases, another hyphen and numeral commonly termed a "sub number" are added to and made part of the Parcel number, indicating a division of or change in the boundary lines of the original Parcel. For example, "55-5555-55-1" is the designation of property described as Assessor's Map Book 55, Block 5555, Parcel 55, Sub. 1.

Mineral Rights Identification:
M.R. = Mineral Rights
W.R. = Water Rights
O. & R. = Oil and Mineral Rights

These assessments can be a combination of rights on more than one (adjacent) property.

Where there is more than one parcel assessed to the same assessee and listed in sequence, the name of said assessee is not repeated but is given only once, namely, with the first of the several parcels so listed.
